Carole Bosch Appointed as Contra Costa Superior Court Judge

The Contra Costa Superior Court is pleased to announce that Governor Gavin Newsom has appointed Carole Bosch as the Court's newest judge. She will take her oath on March 20, 2026, and begin presiding in Department 3 on March 23, 2026.

Since 2021, Judge Bosch has served as an administrative law judge with the California Unemployment Insurance Appeals Board, an independent administrative judicial agency charged with resolving disputed unemployment, disability, and employment tax determinations from the Employment Development Department. She was Vice President and Training Committee Co-Chair for the Administrative Law Judge Association. Simultaneously, she taught as an adjunct professor of legal writing and research at Golden Gate University.

Before serving as administrative law judge, Judge Bosch worked as a civil trial lawyer, including as a managing attorney at Hildebrand, McLeod, and Nelson, a partner at Paul & Hanley, and an attorney at Kazan McClain Satterley & Greenwood, in cases involving complex product liability litigation and catastrophic injury. Early in her legal career, she was an annual attorney with the California Supreme Court.

Judge Bosch is graduate of Golden Gate University School of Law and received her undergraduate degree from the University of California at Santa Cruz. She also holds a master's degree from the University of Birmingham in Great Britain. Judge Bosch fills the vacancy created by the retirement of Judge Patricia Scanlon.
